Funeral of Omiltcha.

The funeral of Omiltcha, which has just been held became an imposition poular demonstration which fortunately was without disorder. A procession of many thousands of persons followed the body from the harber along Preobrajonsky Street to the military centery. The comin, which was covered with the St. Andrew's flag, and on which there were numerous wreaths, was carried by eight sallors. The procession was headed by priests. Neither police nor troops were stationed along the route to the cometery, owing to a wise decision by the authorities, by which the possibility of a collision was averted.

Tirreat to Bombard City. In the most unruly section of the city the populace treat the preclamation warning people to remain indoors after nine o'clock in the evening with the greatest derission and contempt, and freely announce their intention to burn all public buildings in the course of the night. Cossacks guard all the approaches to the town and troops patrol the streets and guard public buildings, especially the banks, within end without.

As showing the strong military hold over the city, many councillars were prevented by troops from reaching the town hall to attend a meeting of the municipal council.

It is quite impossible as yet to obtain any accurate estimate of the number of killed or injured.

any accurate estimate of the number of filled or injured.

It is reported that the Knlaz Petemkine's crew sent a message to the city commandant to-day announcing their intention to bury their commade with military honors, and threatening that if any interference should be attempted they would bombard the city.

Nothing has yet been heard of Admiral Kruger's squadron.

(Earlier,)—Hundreds of rioters were shot and many killed by troops during last night's outbreak. Martial law has been proclaimed. Fires were still burning at midnight, but there was a lull in the disorders at that time.

Practically the entire harbor was gutted by the fires started by the mob last night. All the warehouses, with large quantities of merchandise, as well as four or five Russian steamers were hurned. Probably three hundred rioters were killed. Several Cossacks were also stain. The troops are rapidly restoring order.

order.

The losses are estimated at many millions of roubles. The remnants of the wharves and warehouses set on fire list night are still burning to-day, and the city is enveloped in a thick cloud of smoke. Several explosions occurred in the port during the night and a fierce conflict took place between troops and rinters.

The dead are now reckoned in the hundreds. The hospitals are overflowing with wounded persons, and the medical aid available is quite inadequate. The shops are closed and business traffic is suspended. The streets are occupied by troops. Many residents are leaving Odessa.

The body of Omiltchgo, the sailor excuted on board the Russian battleshi Kniaz Potemkine, is still exposed on quay, where it was landed by the quay, where it was landed by the crew of the Kniaz Potemkine yesterday. The dead man's comrades, who demand that the remains shall be accorded military honor actively fought on the side of the rioters against the troops.

It is reported that the volunteer flect craiser Saratof has been burned at Odessa. Admiral Kruger's squadron is expected to arrive at Odessa to-night. His orders as to summon the Kniaz Potemkine to surrender, and upon her refusal to sink her, ratter which he is to assist in restoring order in the town. A dispatch which arrived here this morning from Sabastopol amounced that a squadron of battleships, the Tri Sviatitella, Sinope and Rostislaw, with a cruiser and several torpedo boats, only started for Odessa last evening. This explains the non-appearance of the squadron at Odessa, but it is difficult to conjecture the reasons for delaying departure two days at such a critical juncture.

June 29 4:50 P. M.—Shortly after noon an untimed dispatch was received here reporting that complete anarchy reigned at Odessa. The inhabitants were paniestricken and were huddled together in the houses. The streets were filled with frenzled workmen, fighting the troops. The warehouses, quays and some of the shipping in the harbor were in flames.

The correspendent of the Associated Pross, who, forwarded this dispatch, had to make his way to the telegraph office through dense smoke, which covered the city like a pall. He heard voilles every few minutes. In the darkness the mob was beginning the work of pillage and plunder, indicating that the dispatch was filed last night, but was delayed by the aguithorities. The correspondent added that blue-jackets, with machine guns, had been landed from the battleship Kniaz Potemkine, in the hands of the mutineers, and they fought with the strikers behind barricades against the troops. Hundreds were killed and the streets were crowded with wounded. There were rumors, the correspondent siso said, that some of the soldiers had joined the mutinous sailors in fighting against the troops, but he was unable to confirm this report.

The correspondent said nothing about the arrival at Odessa of the warships-commanded by Vice-Admiral Kruger, but a dispatch from Sebastopol says the battleship Georgi Bobledodnesetz and the uniser Griden have started for Odessa.

"The mutineers of the battleship Kniaz Potemkine still hold the ship. Rear Admiral Kruger's squadron has not arrived here.

A great fire is destroying the shipping in the harbor, and the buildings along the shore, and in the streets a continuous rattle of small arms is heard. The military everywhere are shooting into the crowds, which are panel stricken and madly rushing hither and thither for shelter. The number of victims is large."

The mob left quietly after doing its work, and none of its members came towards Athens. It is believed that the men were from neighboring counties, as the report was brought to Watkinsville yesterday afternoon by A. N. Bostwick, of Morgan county, that a mob would likely attack the jail last night, This rumor, however, was not given much attention, since so many of its kind had come before. Sheriff Overby was on his farm yesterday afternoon, and he, was not notified by Mr. Bostwick.

In fact, the purpose of the mob was accomplished so quietly that the sheriff, who lives a mile from the jail, knew nothing of the occurrence until this morning, and the residents of Watkinsville were taken completely by surprise.

The people of Ocones county are horrified at the occurrence. They had borne with patience the delay necessary to securing the evidence against the Hotbrook murderers, and had agreed to let the law take its course.
